Says Arab League Secret Loot Plan Is In Action

Oriental Jewry in the Arab countries "is in danger of perishing, unless immediate, determined and effective steps are taken to strengthen its position," the Israeli correspondent of the American Jewish Committee warned in a report to the U.S. Foreign Affairs Department late in August.

The American Jewish Committee has brought this matter to the attention of the proper U.S. governmental authorities and has started other forms of action to aid this oppressed group.

Pointing out that Jews in the Arab countries constitute a large organized body of the Jewish people, with their own traditions and values, the report contains an urgent plea for aid to Oriental Jewry by Jewish organizations. "The process of systematic, legalized impoverishment and 'declassing' is in full swing," the report notes. "For decades, Jewish organizations have forgotten Oriental Jewry's needs, except for the provision of a few schools."

The correspondent paints a grim picture of the condition of Oriental Jewry. "More painful, perhaps, than the fighting in Palestine is the storm focused on the Jewish population of the Arab countries," he writes. "I must emphasize that not very much of this comes to light, owing to the very severe censorship. However, in June the anti-Jewish moves in the Arab states received such fresh impetus, that no censorship could suppress publication of the excesses.

"The immediate cause for these excesses is attributed to the plight of the Palestine Arabs.

"Three and a half months have now passed since the Arab mass evacuation, which turned out to be the desire of the Arab rebel-

... Fund For 10,000

The migration of 10,000 Jews a month from Europe into the new State of Israel was called for by Edward M. M. Warburg of New York, chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee, speaking at its Western States regional conference at San Francisco, Calif.

He said the displaced persons' camps in Europe and on Cyprus "still hold 200,000 Jews who must be given their opportunity for a new life without further delay."

Mr. Warburg and Moses A. Leavitt, executive vice-chairman of the committee, asserted that Europe's Jews could complete their rehabilitation only through a program of increased emigration for those who wished to leave and of intensified reconstruction for those who chose to stay in Europe.

Addressing representatives from seven states, Mr. Warburg disclosed that during September the Agency had appropriated $1,400,000 for the migration program.

It had spent $300,000,000 for reconstruction since the end of the war, Mr. Leavitt said, adding, however, that "in Eastern Europe we must continue to help 700,000 Jews to stand on their own feet."

"We must help them build shops, learn or relearn skills and trades, repair their farms and restore them to health," he said. "These projects are continuing. We cannot forget the Jews who cannot or do not choose to emigrate."

The delegates set a fall campaign goal of 415,000 pounds of canned foods, layettes, new clothing and other relief articles for overseas survivors.

Assisted Thousands To Escape

Numa Torczyner, head of the Diamond Center, Inc., in New York, and a prominent Zionist, died in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, after a brief illness, according to word received by his family. His age was 63. He resided at 668 West End Avenue.

Closely identified with the Zionist movement for more than forty-five years, Mr. Torczyner had attended the sessions of the Actions Committee of the World Zionist Organization in Israel last month and was stricken while on his way home.

Born, in Brody, Poland, Mr. Torczyner, after the first World War, lived in Antwerp, Belgium, where he became known as a diamond merchant. He was on the Nazi blacklist for helping thousands of Jews to escape from Germany. He headed the Belgium Zionist Federation before coming to America in 1940.

In 1946, while attending the World Zionist Congress at Basle, Switzerland, he was elected, with other veteran Zionists, "Virilist members" of the Actions Committee, signifying long service on behalf of Zionism.

Mr. Torczyner was a member of the national boards of the United Jewish Appeal, the United Palestine Appeal and the Jewish National Fund. He maintained offices at 2 West Forty-sixth Street.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Saleha Torczyner; two sons, Jacques, a member of the national executive committee of the Zionist Organization of America, and Harry, also a prominent Zionist; three brothers, Dr. Harry Torczyner, dean of the humanitarian faculty at the Hebrew University, Jerusalem; Moses and Joshua, and two sisters, Mrs. Hanna Pinsky and Mrs.

Federation standards of service, he said, must be preserved by "raising standards of generosity," adding that "institutions cannot be expected to live and function in the world of today, if the community gives by the standards of yesterday."

He said that the hospitals and other agencies had served more than 480,000 men and women of all races and religions in the last year. Its eight hospitals and other medical care agencies served 228,588 persons.

Twelve child care and guidance agencies helped 13,588 dependent, physically handicapped or emotionally disturbed children and twenty-four community centers, Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Associations and settlement and neighborhood houses, had an average monthly attendance of 358,334 visits, while thirteen family welfare agencies, old age projects and vocational guidance agencies served 20,916 families.

ISRAELI MEN REPAY BLOOD IN N.Y.

Four Israeli soldiers made a "thank you" donation to the Greater New York Red Cross blood program when they visited the blood donor center at 57 Willoughby Street, Brooklyn, N.Y., to "repay" the blood plasma sent to their country from the United States.

The four men, all members of the Israeli soccer team now touring the United States under United Jewish Appeal auspices, went to the Willoughby Street center to show their appreciation for war surplus blood plasma sent to Palestine by the American Red Cross and for the recent donations made by Americans. They are all on leave from their army duties.

Samuel Ben-Dror, a captain in the Israeli armed forces, spoke for the group when he said the blood gifts were "a very small token of our gratitude."

Simon Zimmerman, a corporal, said: "Quite a few American boys have given their blood for us. I feel happy to leave some of mine in their country."

While the philanthropic contributions of American Jewry are needed in Israel, Mr. Glasser urged that a policy of non-interference with the internal and political life of Israel be followed.

"The purposes for which American philanthropic monies are spent in Israel should be consistent with the internal political, economic and financial policies of the Israeli Government," he declared. "American contributions should not be spent for purposes which the Israeli Government does not approve, nor should emphasis be given to expenditures when the Israeli Government requires a different emphasis."

Mr. Glasser revealed that the mass exodus of Arabs from Palestine had "surprised" everyone. He declared that the Jewish authorities had "pleaded with the Arabs to stay," and had promised them "fair and equal treatment as citizens of the country." The Arab departure was sudden and almost universal, he said.

"They left their lands, their crops unharvested. They left their tools and livestock and abandoned stores and homes throughout the whole of Israel. In any other part of the Near East, the mass exodus of the native Arab population would have meant the paralysis of the country."

This did not take place in Israel, Mr. Glasser asserted, because of the tremendous strides made by the Jews over the past several decades. Modern methods in agriculture and industry will now be introduced, he said, whether or not the Arabs return.

Looking toward the unrestricted immigration of Jews, Government leaders are making ambitious plans for the nation's economy, he said. The "heart of Israel's economy is agriculture," Mr. Glasser added. He cited the existence of an agricultural class which can make "the agricultural production of Israel grow faster than the prospective rate of immigration," as proof of its soundness.

In relation to the industrial outlook, Mr. Glasser stressed that the Government will welcome private investment in such fields as chemicals, petroleum, textile, electrical machinery, steel fabricating, and tourist development. Mr. Glasser declared that the present Negev desert "represents a great reservoir of land for the future development" of the pioneer country. He added that if the agricultural techniques now being worked out in Negev settlements are successful, it can become the "cornerstone home of [illegible]

Claims Israeli Workers Demand Negeb

Dr. Moshe Sneh, who headed the Jewish underground army Haganah from 1940 to 1946, charged in New York that efforts were being made to "utilize the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte as an excuse to attack the territorial integrity and sovereignty of the State of Israel." He warned that the people of Israel were determined not to accept any compromise that would cost them vital parts of the Negeb.

Dr. Sneh arrived in the U. S. as a spokesman for "the progressive forces in Israel." A native of Poland, he fled that country after its occupation by Germany. In the summer of 1946 he went to Paris, having left Haifa two days after the Stern gang's bombing of the David Hotel. From Paris he directed Jewish immigration to Palestine, as a member of the Executive of the Jewish Agency, until his resignation late in 1947. He is now on the Executive of the United Workers party and editor of its daily newspaper, Al Hamishmar, in Tel Aviv.

An Israeli leader's prediction that Palestine's political future soon would be settled by division of the southern desert area of the Negeb across the thirty-first parallel was rejected by Dr. Sneh. He said such a prediction as this could not have represented the sentiments of Israeli's workers and soldiers. Diversion of part of the area from Israel would put it at the military disposal of the Arabs' "protectors," the British, Dr. Sneh said.

The Negeb contains potash, manganese, bromides and perhaps oil deposits to which Israel is entitled, and it also offers a site for a possible canal that not only would link the Mediterranean and ward as one of the basic policies of the State and will be a considerable drain on the resources of the country," he declared. "The people of Israel are confident that the Negev will provide the means whereby Israel can become a great state. Great in the number of Jews who can be settled and great in the economic contribution it will make to the people. The people of Israel are willing to make this sacrifice now for the hope of what it would bring in years to come."

Henry N. Rapaport, president of the congregation, pleaded for a continuation of a drive for a central ecclesiastical authority to reconcile traditional Judaism with American customs.

In another major address, Stanley C. Myers, of Miami, Florida, CJFWF President, called for a "working partnership" between communities and national and overseas agencies to meet "the awe-inspiring needs" of Israel, Europe and America.

"The community organizations, and through them the CJFWF, are interested in the teamwork of all sections of American Jewry, not in the promotion of any one," he declared. "We are seeking to mobilize all forces in Jewish life to overcome the common problems which beset us and to enrich our group ideals and patterns of life."

"Mr. Myers contended that: "The communities of America have demonstrated their ability and leadership in fund-raising. They have proven their integrity to decide issues on the basis of fact, not temporary whim or enthusiasm or partisan approach. We have earned the trust and confidence of the national agencies — all of them; and with it we have earned the right to full partnership, a full participation in national affairs, and to assert that right actively. No one program of our Jewish action—whether in America or Europe or Palestine—can be really strong if the others are neglected. More than ever before we need the kind of vision, the kind of understanding, the kind of strength and courage which will see all of these needs as inseparable parts of the totality of our obligations."

Warns Of Racket To Speed DP Entry

The American Society of Travel Agents warned relatives and friends who wish to help displaced persons in entering the United States of a "bonus racket" in which an "expediter" offers to speed up the arrival of the individual for a large fee.

In a special message designed to prevent a recurrence of malpractices that were used at the start of World War II when refugees attempted to flee Germany, the organization released part of a report presented at the eighteenth annual convention of the group starting in Savannah, Ga. The report also will be distributed to 518 members in 240 communities.

"Under recently enacted laws permitting the entry of 205,000 homeless Europeans," the society said, "no provision is made for payment of displaced persons' passage by the Government. Americans desirous of aiding relatives or friends abroad will carry a large share of the burden of transportation costs, either as individuals or through relief organizations.

"Unfortunately, it is inevitable that in a situation of this kind so-called 'specialists' are likely to approach worried Americans and offer to get relatives or friends out of Europe—for a handsome fee.

"Displaced persons must meet certain requirements, of course. But any bonus payments to 'expedite' their entry into the United States are unwarranted."

It was noted that recognized travel agents are able to advise sponsors of displaced persons about the procedures to be followed in arranging for passage. The report emphasized that the agents, who handle travel problems of many [illegible] the large gather[illegible]g of guests were James G. McDonald, United States envoy to Israel, and Pavel Yershov, Soviet envoy. Between the two sat Justice Moshe Dunkelblum of Israel's Supreme Court.

The Council members attending the session broke off their discussions to give a rousing ovation to the man whom Premier Ben-Gurion called the "great architect of the Jewish National Home."

The President spoke in Hebrew in a low voice that was hardly audible at the back of the hall. Recalling his previous visits to Palestine, he said:

"This time I come with the development of Israel into a veritable state already a milestone on the historical record. . . . I come after a struggle on the field of battle, after the creation of our state. I come as a citizen of the state of Israel. These achievements we owe to the great work done in this and during the last thirty years on the foundations laid by the early pioneers who came to this country three generations ago, paving the way for their successors."

Hope that the "old traditional friendship between the Jewish people and Britain" would be re-established was expressed by Dr. Weizmann. He told correspondents at a news conference in the research center named for him that it was

New Refugee Stream Flows To Vienna

A new stream of Hungarian and Czechoslovak Jewish refugees is flowing into Vienna. The great majority of the newcomers, said to total about 3,000, were formerly business men. They have not entered the Jewish refugee camps but have settled wherever they could find quarters privately.

They said they had lost their businesses and property and had not felt safe in Hungary or Czechoslovakia. Most of those coming from Hungary said they had fled to avoid the possibility of being placed in forced labor battalions on their refusal to join the Communist party.

Few of the newcomers are en route to Palestine. Many would like to get to the Western Hemisphere. In any case they are eager to reach Western Europe, where they hope to be able to go back into business.

They were forced to cross the frontiers illegally according to the New York Times. They report that smugglers often charge high prices for bringing refugees over the frontier to the relative safety of the United States, British and French areas of Vienna.

Most of the newcomers have enough money or valuables with them to support themselves for the time being and do not add to the problem of providing refugee aid.

"I have no axe to grind as far as Russia or any other political system is concerned," he said, "except that Russia is a great country with a great future. Russia has behaved admirably toward us; she has supported us honestly and squarely, and it is not for us to forget that."

Of the murder of Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Mediator for Palestine, he said: "As a people we are entirely innocent. The Jews did not kill him. A Jew did it, and the Jews condemn the act."

The President said that he was opposed to the Bernadotte proposal to give the Negeb, the desert area in southern Palestine, to the Arabs on the ground that it was needed for large-scale immigration planned by Israel.

Dr. Weizmann said that he had spoken to President Truman about the Negeb last November and that "he (President Truman) was fully appreciative of the great interest which it had for the Jews." Dr. Weizmann said he had received the impression that President Truman has been prepared to support the inclusion of the Negeb within Israel. "But there are forces which oppose him," Dr. Weizmann added, and he said that he was "disappointed" at the United States' back-

Former Merchant Is Student At 85 To Stay Young

Louis Rich is 85 years old, but because he wants to "stay young and keep up with the world" he enrolled in Bergen Junior College at Teaneck, N.J.

Looking less than 70, and dressed in the green and white "frosh" jacket of the school, yellow vest, sweater and grey flannel trousers, he took his place with the younger students and walked from building to building on the campus with them. He smoked a cigar between classes.

He lives with his daughter, Mrs. R. D. Grosman of 280 Wyoming Avenue, South Orange, whose husband is former Advisory Master in Chancery in New Jersey. He will attend classes every Tuesday and Thursday, arriving in his own car, driven by a chauffeur.

"All my friends have passed on and I don't want to be lonely," Mr. Rich told Dr. Charles Little, college president, and a group of students and reporters gathered at Lyon's Hall at the college. "I like young people and they have usually liked me. I feel a man should study until he dies. It's never too late for an old dog to learn new tricks, no matter what they say."

A former dry goods merchant, Mr. Rich retired several years ago. "I am going to specialize in courses on textiles and foods because I know something about both businesses," he said. "If I get along okay in these I want to take courses in English and science. We're in the atomic age and I want to keep up with it until I die."

Mr. Rich, who came to the U.S. from Austria when he was a young boy, had six children, two of whom died. Two were graduated from college. He eats a hearty breakfast, skips lunch, has dinner at 7 p.m. and smokes three cigars a day.

"I know I can take you young people, jokes and all. I only hope you can take me," he said.

N.Y. Mayor Gets Tel Aviv Trowel

Mayor O'Dwyer added "verbal cement" to the friendship between the United States and Israel as he accepted a silver trowel brought from Tel Aviv as a gift from Histadrut, the Israel Labor Federation of 300,000 members.

At a luncheon in his honor in Schwartz's Restaurant, 54 Broad Street, New York, the Mayor called the trowel a symbol of the "efforts of a courageous people" to build a national home. He urged de jure recognition and financial support for Israel, which he described as a "sunbeam of hope" for Jews and an inspiration to the world in providing education, health and economic security for all its people.

Dr. Joseph Mayer, medical director of Histadrut, recalled that the Mayor came to the United States as an immigrant and attained high office "because this is truly a land of the free, offering to each citizen equal opportunity." As Israel went about establishing its democracy on the American pattern, he said, "a trowel or a plow or another instrument for building the land" would be given to each of the thousands of immigrants to the new state.

Harvey Rosen, secretary of the Fire Department and executive chairman of the Municipal Employees Committee for Histadrut, praised the Mayor's interest in Israel as being free from political expediency. He also announced the opening of a drive by Histadrut for $10,000,000 for the rehabilitation and social welfare of immigrants to the Jewish state.

Urge Three Steps To Aid Israel

Three steps to help achieve stability in Palestine were recommended in a statement signed by sixteen national organizations and issued by the American Association of the United Nations, 45 East Sixty-fifth Street, New York.

The steps recommended are granting of de jure recognition to the State of Israel by the United States, the granting of an American loan of $100,000,000 to Israel, and admission of the Jewish state to the U. N.

The sixteen organizations are the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, American Association for the United Nations, American Christian Palestine Committee, American Jewish Committee, American Jewish Conference, American Jewish Congress, American Jewish Congress Women's Division, American Zionist Emergency Council, and Bnai Brith.

Also, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, Jewish War Veterans, National Council of Jewish Women, Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, Society for the [illegible] War II.

Miss Daphne Montefiore, 4331 Western Avenue, Montreal, is co-convener with Miss Jessie Erdrich, of the annual dinner luncheon of the Spanish and Portuguese Sisterhood on Wednesday, November 3, in the Normandie Room of the Mount Royal Hotel.

Official Israeli currency is now in circulation, the first Jewish currency in nearly 2,000 years. The population was given a month's grace to exchange the British-issued Palestine pound for Israeli notes. Only Israeli currency circulates in the country, and former Palestine notes are considered foreign exchange. The Israeli currency came into being officially at a special session of the State Council which unanimously approved the Currency Bill and the appended covenant with the Anglo-Palestine Bank which is issuing the currency. The Bill was presented by Minister of Finance Eliezer Kaplan and seconded by Dr. Abraham Granovsky, Chairman of the Government's Finance Committee. It was signed, for the Government, by Prime Minster David Ben-Gurion, Minister of Justice Felix Rosenbleuth, and Mr. Kaplan. Siegfried Hoofien signed for the Board of Directors of the Anglo-Palestine Bank.

It Happens Every Day In Jewish Middletown

By Ben Zevi David

Mr. Irving Goldstein came to live in Jewish Middletown ten years ago. He came from Brooklyn, N.Y. (Honest, no offense meant. Why are Brooklynites so sensitive?) Why he left Brooklyn I'll never know. That he had money was quite obvious; he bought the large corner store in the heart of the business district. He bought a home in one of Middletown's fashionable suburbs. He became a member of the Jewish country club and joined the Conservative congregation, where he was immediately made a member of the Board of Directors.

Ten years have passed since Mr. Goldstein came to live in our midst. He is, by now, one of the best-known characters in town. (In Middletown, when they say "character," they mean a person who is completely unspoiled by conventional behavior and who is quite oblivious of public opinion—a person who is natural, naturally crude, vulgar, yet fascinating.)

Goldstein's business has prospered tremendously; the corner store has become one of the busiest establishments in the city, the fashion center for Middletown's discriminating shoppers. He has become a power to be reckoned with in the local Chamber of Commerce. When Goldstein says that late closing should be changed from Saturday night to Friday night, he carries the day without too much difficulty. (When his Rabbi says, "Mr. Goldstein, Friday night! The only night when our people get to services," Goldstein looks surprised and replies, "Rabbi, believe me, I forgot Friday night was Shabbos.")

He is now chairman of the all-important House Committee at the Country Club and is responsible for bringing some of the choicest baked hams and delicious lobsters into the Club's cuisine. But the post he prizes most is that of chairman of the Membership Committee of the Conservative Synagogue. For in addition to the prestige that it carries, it gives him a remarkable opportunity to display his talent for leadership.

No one can become a member of the Synagogue unless he is first approved by Goldstein. Who, after all, knows better than he who is suitable for membership in this swank congregation?

"Let me tell you, gentlemen," Goldstein tells the Board in his best Milt Grossian English, when a Board member has proposed some salaried salesman for membership, "fifty dollar members you can get by the bushel. Who wouldn't become a member for fifty dollars? But I tell you it's a mistake. If you want to fill the synagogue with junk, that's your business; but you can't run this kind of an institution with such members. We want a high class rabbi and a high class cantor, don't we? We want to have high class merchandise to sell, yes? Then we must have high class members. If you take any one in for less than a hundred dollars, you'll ruin our synagogue."

And Goldstein's logic being unassailable and his business acumen beyond reproach (look what he accomplished in ten years!), the lower classes must perforce look for their religious merchandise in some less exclusive and expensive establishment.

Unconsciously, Goldstein is aware of the maxim, noblesse oblige. As a leader of the synagogue he feels it his duty to attend services on Saturday mornings. He is there promptly at nine o'clock when the services start, but he is never there at the end. No matter what point in the services it may be, exactly at eleven o'clock Goldstein doffs his talit, folds it neatly, and slinks out of the synagogue.

It was not necessary for the rabbi to call Goldstein to account about this irregularity of conduct. Goldstein called the rabbi to account. "You see, I like to come to services Saturday morning, but how long can I stay? After all, I have my business. That's the trouble with you rabbis: you think people have nothing else to do but spend the whole day in Shul. We're business men and we have to make money so that we can pay your salary. Let me tell you something, rabbi, you streamline this service so that we can get out in an hour and I guarantee you we'll pack the place every Saturday. So we won't say all the prayers. Nobody cares about them, anyway."

That Goldstein's thoughts are not directed entirely to his prayers is evidenced by some snatches of conversation which have been overheard and repeated. Mrs. Cohen relates that when her daughter joined her one Saturday morning in the synagogue, Mr. Goldstein leaned over and, in a whisper that caused every worshipper to turn around, said, "Do you know that we just opened a Junior Miss department in our store? Bring your daughter in and we'll fix you up."

He was generous, too, in his own inimitable manner. The ceremony of taking out the Torah was going on and the cantor was facing the congregation with the Holy Scroll in his hands. But Goldstein's thoughts were elsewhere.

He was looking intently at the rabbi's wife and then a great decision was born in him. He edged over to Mrs. Rabbi and as the cantor was singing, "Shema Yisroel," he gently inquired, "Do you have a charge account in my store?" The rebbitzin was horrified, but, after all, Mr. Goldstein! Without turning her head, she nodded. Thus encouraged, Goldstein went on, "But have they been giving you our discount for special customers?" This was more than the rabbi's wife could stand.

As the procession was making its way around the bimah, she turned to him and said, "I don't like to talk about these things in the synagogue, Mr. Goldstein, see me some other time." Mr. Goldstein was astounded and in a tone of amazement said, "But this is business!" (And, after all, Mrs. Rabbi, what could be more sacred in this world than business?)

Yes, Mr. Goldstein came to this little town ten years ago and it looks as if he's here to stay. And, mark my words, he's really going places in this town. He plays a good game of golf, is one of the best pinochle, bridge and gin rummy players in town, dances the rhumba like a young bobby-soxer. So he doesn't speak such a good English. So he isn't the most educated man in town. But he is a big success in business and he's somebody to be reckoned with in the Jewish community. In fact, I wouldn't be surprised at all—yes, I'll make you a bet that he'll be the next president of the synagogue.

Author's note: Any resemblance between Mr. Irving Goldstein and someone living wouldn't be very surprising, would it?

URGES D.P. IN N.Y. TO FILE NAMES

All displaced persons in New York City, regardless of race or creed, who cannot return to their native countries because of political, racial or religious persecution, were urged by Hugo E. Rogers, [illegible] -ugh President, to register now for permanent residence in the U.S. under the Federal Displaced Persons Act of 1948.

Pointing out that the act provides that 15,000 such persons may remain in the U. S. as legal residents, Mr. Rogers stressed the importance of prompt filing. Mr. Rogers, a vice-president of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society (HIAS), said the society's services have been extended to all eligible persons, regardless of race or creed, who wish to register at HIAS headquarters, 425 Lafayette Street.

Mr. Rogers said those concerned should bring with them the following information: alien registration card, passport or other travel document, the numbers, streets and cities of all places where the applicant has resided since Sept. 1, 1939, with dates. A separate application will be required for each member of a family. An application for a child under 14 may be filed by a parent or guardian.

New Bible Is Bright, Took Ten Years

A new edition of the King James version of the Bible, designed to be read and understood easily, has been published by the Oxford University Press. At a luncheon in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, in New York, Dr. E. Schuyler English, editor in chief of the work, described special features that will make the volume specially suitable for young persons.

"We cannot fully appreciate or get the best out of Shakespeare, Beethoven or Rembrandt unless we are prepared to sit down and do some hard studying," Geoffrey Cumberledge, manager of the Oxford University Press in England, commented. "Yet man feels that just to open and read the Bible is to understand it. This is not so."

To make the new edition understandable and interesting, 7,300 footnotes within its 1,760 pages will help to simplify difficult passages, define odd words, clarify archaic phrases and explain doctrine.

Diagrams will show Solomon's Temple and Palace, the location of the courts and porches, the holy place and the Holy of Holies. Line drawings will illustrate the Ark of the Covenant, the golden altar of incense and the table of shewbread. Nine of the ten maps included will be brightened with sketches of events described in each section.

Work on the new book, called the Pilgrim Edition, was started more than ten years ago. Cooperating was a staff of thirty-six consulting and contributing editors —religious workers in colleges and schools, instructors and evangelists, pastors and Sunday School teachers, parents and young persons. A special group of Bible scholars checked the doctrinal accuracy of the notes.

Originally intended for children, the scope of edition gradually was enlarged to meet the requirements of older groups and parents and teachers needing aid in clarifying Bible text and history.

An introduction to each book of the Bible explains the authorship, history and purpose, and in many cases gives an outline of the book. An introductory chapter gives the history of various versions of the Bible. Another chapter traces Israel's history in the 400 years that elapsed between the Old and New Testaments.

Growing interest in the Bible among young people was cited by Dr. English. He said the Pilgrim Edition was planned to meet their needs. Their interest in music, astronomy, science and animal life is catered to with explanations and descriptions of Old World items.

The foot notes range from definition of a single word to complete rewordings of sentences or whole passages. For the reader who is stopped by the term "habergeon" a note reads: "This was a coat of mail, like armor, for covering from the neck to the waist. It had a small, round neck hole. The robe of the ephod was the same shape as a habergeon."

There is help also for a person confused by a proverb. "As a thorn goeth up into the hand of a drunkard, so is a parable in the mouth of fools" is interpreted: "A thorn has a point as does a parable, but a drunkard cannot feel the thorn and the fool does not understand the parable."

J.W.B. Arranges Services For Men In Forces

With its armed service committees and staff alerted to meet the religious needs of the new teenage enlistees on the holidays, the National Jewish Welfare Board (JWB) arranged for religious services and home hospitality for servicemen at some 400 VA hospitals and military installations in the U.S. Abroad, JWB shipped large quantities of Talethim (prayer shawls), prayer books, skull caps, greeting cards and holiday leaflets to its corps of Jewish chaplains, who conducted services at Panama, Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, Korea, Japan, Germany, and Austria.

JWB is the agency recognized by the government and designated by the American Jewish community to care for the religious, welfare and morale needs of Jewish personnel in the armed service and in VA hospitals. There were 20 area field workers, 150 full and part-time chaplains, and 261 volunteer armed service committees involved in the program for the High Holy Days. Jewish communities extended themselves in providing synagogue services and home hospitality for men unable to get leave. Local arrangements of JWB units also included provision for on-post services for inductees getting basic training and "break-the-fast" parties at the installation and in community homes at the conclusion of Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement).

Catholic and Protestant veterans groups in some areas assumed the task of bringing wheel-chair and stretcher cases into chapel at VA hospitals. In New York, this took place at the Kingsbridge VA. Christian chaplains lent aid, and at some points the VA hospitals furnished religious supplies. Army authorities granted leaves to Jewish men wherever military exigency permitted. Non-Jewish aid was given when the Louisville, Ky., servicemen's club provided sleeping accommodations for servicemen who could not be taken care of in community homes.

In many VA hospitals, local JWB committees and rabbis arranged religious services for mental patients. At others, services were held in hospital chapels. Where patients were too ill to attend, recordings of the services were played to the bedside. These recordings, part of the hospital library, are furnished by the Women's Division. In hospitals, men unable to leave brought around the radio to li[illegible] to a service broadcast by a rabbi from an adjacent community. Communities vied with one another in the shipment of holiday gift packages for bedridden men. At a great many installations, JWB staff and chaplains arranged for patients to make holiday voice recordings to be forwarded to their families.

The general chairmanship of the Boy Scout fund-raising campaign in New York has been accepted by Nathan M. Ohrbach, chairman of the board of Ohrbach's, Inc., Gerald F. Beal, president of the Greater New York Council of the Boy Scouts, announced. The goal of the Scout fund drive is $2,000,000, which will be used for expanding the Scout program in New York and for more buildings, rehabilitation and maintenance of Scout camps. This is the fifth consecutive year that Mr. Ohrbach has been chosen to serve the Scouts in this capacity.

Woman Was Great Benefactor Of Blind

Mrs. Samuel D. Friedman, benefactor of the blind in the Near East and Europe, died in Mount Sinai Hospital after an illness of several months. She was 69 years old. Her home was at 15 West Eighty-first Street, New York.

Mrs. Friedman was the founder and national president of the Palestine Lighthouse, an American organization providing financial support for the Institute for the Blind in Palestine, and for a recently organized branch in Vienna.

She established the Palestine Lighthouse twenty-two years ago after a visit to Jerusalem. Moved by the plight of blind children who appeared destined to become mendicants because of their lack of education, she resolved to set up a modern facility to provide occupational schooling and a community center for the sightless.

The Lighthouse became the only haven of its kind for the Jewish blind outside the United States. Its chapters in many cities are engaged in raising funds to expand the Jerusalem institute and make a permanent facility of the one operating in Vienna for the benefit of the blind of the recent war.

In 1947, at a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel celebrating the twentieth anniversary of the Lighthouse, Mrs. Friedman was the guest of honor. The Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, officiated at the presentation of a bronze bust of Mrs. Friedman, the work of Jo Davidson. The Rev. Dr. David de Sola Pool of the Spanish-Portuguese Synagogue presided as honorary president of the Lighthouse.

In her efforts to improve the lot of the blind Mrs. Friedman was aided by endorsements from Helen Keller, former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and other prominent persons.

In addition to directing the work of the Lighthouse, she was active until her illness in providing food packages for the blind of Europe.

Mrs. Friedman was born in Russia and came to the U.S. at the age of four. Her husband, who is president of the Knickerbocker Leather and Novelty Company of New York, has been closely associated with her work for the blind.

Surviving also are two sons, Charles and Irving Friedman.

THE BABY TEETH

The 20 foundation or "baby" teeth are among a child's most precious possessions. If they are not properly cared for, the child's mouth may not develop properly, resulting in poor adult eating habits, speech difficulties, and a great deal of pain and discomfort in later life.

Louis Feigenblatt, HIAS (Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society) representative in Costa Rica, has been assured by President Jose Figueres that the some 1,000 Jews who entered Costa Rica since VE Day and who since the revolution in that country, in May, have been considered "illegals" will have their immigration status legalized in the near future. The HIAS representative, who is also president of the Jewish community in San Jose, indicated that the new government has failed, thus far, to recognize the legality of the immigration permits issued by the government that was ousted from power in the three-month violent revolution of last spring. Mr. Feigenblatt told Isaac L. Asofsky, HIAS Executive Director, that the Society's efforts on behalf of the newcomers to Costa Rica will soon bear fruit.

Rabbi Shlomo Lorentz, who arrived in New York by air from Palestine on a furlough from Haganah, the Israeli Army, said that he would spend two months in mobilizing Orthodox Jews in the United States for the financial and moral support of Israel. Interviewed at the Essex House, Rabbi Lorentz, director of activities for the Haganah Defense Corps, declared he was acting as a special envoy for Rabbi I. M. Lewin, Israeli Minister of Welfare. One of his tasks, he said, will be to inspire Jewish youths in the United States to join in pioneering work in Israel as soon as peace is established.

First organization to be called Young Women's Hebrew Association was organized in 1888 by the New York YMHA as a ladies auxiliary. Its first president was the distinguished educator, Julia Richman.

The flow of Jewish D.P. immigration from Europe to Ecuador, slowed to a trickle several months ago when that South American Government abruptly ceased issuing visas on an appreciable scale, has been resumed, it was announced by Isaac L. Asofsky, Executive Director of HIAS (Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society). According to a cable received from Quito, 60 visas, the first sizeable block of such permits to be issued in three months, were granted for the immigration of European D.P.'s to Ecuador. This includes visas for a share of the persons destined for Ecuador last winter, who were stranded in Paris where HIAS provided them with relief and shelter during their waiting period. Representations are continuing with the Ecuadorian Government for large-scale immigration of D.P.'s to the West Coast South American country.

Dr. Rosoff was born in Poland and was brought to the United States at an early age. He was graduated from the New York College of Dentistry in 1914. He was a member of the National Academy of Science and of the American Dental Association.

NEW IDEA GEFULTE FISH

Four pounds of whitefish and dore are needed to make this recipe for four people. After fish has been filleted and boned, it should weigh about two pounds. Put the fish through the meat-chopper. Cut up two onions into cold water and simmer for about one-half hour, until soft. Add to the fish, in a deep wooden bowl. Chop together the fish and the cooked onions until mixture is very fine, adding about one-half cup cold water while chopping. Add two egg-yolks, salt and pepper to taste. Beat the whites of two eggs until very stiff, and chop them into the fish mixture. Lastly, chop in one tablespoon fine bread crumbs. Cut up one onion, and put it in large pot in which fish will be boiled. Add water, and when it is boiling, drop in balls of the fish mixture. Slice carrots into small length-wise strips, and lay the strips on top of the fish. Boil uncovered for ten minutes. Cover, and boil slowly, watching to see that the fish does not stick, for about one and one-quarter hours.

Cites Role Of Private Charity

There is a growing dependency by government agencies on voluntary philanthropic organizations to close the financial gaps in welfare spending and to insure the operation of social institutions on a high plane, Ralph E. Samuel, president of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York, said.

Mr. Samuel made his statement in connection with the opening of the Federation's 1948 fund campaign for $16,500,000 to maintain and operate 116 member hospitals and health and welfare agencies in the city.

Although New York City gives financial aid for child care and medical care of the aged, he said, it depends on "the community generosity to close the financial gap and on organizations like the Federation to operate the institutions on a high plane, the institutions to which it gives financial assistance but in which it wants no part of the management."

He said that institutions supported by voluntary contributions are expected to do the pioneer work and research in developing new techniques and methods, and they do so "with the aid and blessing of government."

"As a result," he added, "there is a developing partnership between government and private philanthropy."

A PUBLIC ENEMY

The rat has been the enemy of mankind for centuries for he not only attacks through destruction of goods and food supplies running into millions of dollars annually, but he also strikes directly at humanity through disease. Throughout history rats have spread epidemics of bubonic plague and typhus fever and have caused the death of millions of people. They should be starved out, poisoned and trapped relentlessly.

A plan for providing security in old age for Orthodox Rabbis who are members of the Rabbinical Council of America will eliminate the tragedy that occurs occasionally in Orthodox congregations whereby older Rabbis who have given a life-term of service to the Jewish community and to all Jewish causes, are left stranded and forsaken when they have to make way for a younger Rabbi. According to this Pension and Insurance Plan monthly annuities at the age of 65 as well as life insurance are provided by the congregations by the payment of an annual premium for that purpose. The pension and insurance benefits have been underwritten by the Continental Assurance Company. Sidney E. Leiwant, Administrator of the plan, has already signed up the minimum number of Rabbis required to inaugurate the plan. It is the hope of the Rabbinical Council to enlist the interest of all congregations in the United States so that everyone of its 400 members will be ultimately enrolled in this plan. The plan is sponsored by the Rabbinical Council of America, Yeshiva University in New York City, Hebrew Theological College in Chicago, Illinois, and the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America. It will be administered by a Jewish Board of Trustees.

Council Expands Overseas Student Aid

The National Council of Jewish Women, which for more than two years has been providing American university training to European women as an aid to the reconstruction of the Jewish community abroad, has expanded its overseas scholarship program to include the Middle East and South America. Three young women from Israel and one from Brazil are the first scholarship students from these areas. Like the 26 students who have preceded them, these latest students will return to their homelands upon the completion of their studies here to apply their specialized training.

With the selection of three students from Israel, Council strengthens its participation in the cultural development of that new country as evidenced in its recent announcement of a $36,000 contribution to the School of Education of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. The three Israeli students, Mrs. Shlomith Tubin, Miss Aliza Hatchwall, and Miss Eva Buttenweiser, are all registered in schools in New York.

Mrs. Tubin, a native of Czechoslovakia, and for fourteen years a resident of Beth Zera, a Kibbutz in the Jordan Valley, is studying nursery school and elementary education at the Bank Street School. She is in the United States with her husband, who is engaged in an education mission for a Labor Zionist organization, and with her two children, aged ten and five, who attend a New York public school. She will return to teach in Israel.

Miss Aliza Hatchwall, a "Sabra" or native-born Palestinian, whose home is in Ramat Gan, a suburb of Tel Aviv, is studying occupational therapy at New York University. She hopes to work in an Israeli hospital. Miss Eva Buttenweiser, originally from Germany and a resident of Haifa for 12 years, is preparing for her work in Israel by taking courses in home economics and institutional management at Pratt Institute.

The first of Council's South American students, Miss Rosia Altschuler, of Brazil, has begun her studies in group work at Denver University. Born in Poland, Miss Altschuler immigrated to Brazil with her family at the age of eight. Formerly a teacher of languages in Rio de Janeiro, she plans to do welfare work in the Brazilian Jewish community when she completes her training.

BRANTFORD SYNAGOGUE DEDICATED IN MEMORY OF AIRMAN

The new Beth David Synagogue, at Palace and Albion Streets, Brantford, was dedicated in memory of the late LAC David Richard Axler, who lost his life while serving with the R.C.A.F. Mrs. B. Finkelstein officially opened the door with a golden key, with which she was presented. The synagogue was adorned with large baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, carnations and potted ferns.

Louis Henkle, president of the Hebrew Association, opened the ceremonies and welcomed the visitors. Rabbi G. Felder, of Brantford, conducted the services, and Rabbi B. Groner, of Windsor, was the guest speaker. Others participating included Rabbi S. Lavine, Hamilton.

Chairman for the day was Max Sherman and Cantor S. Sniderman, Hamilton, was in charge of hymns and music. Four hundred people in attendance included a large number of out-of-town guests. The community consists of seventy-five families.

The ceremonies started at the old synagogue with a procession led by men carrying the Union Jack and Mogen David, flag of Israel, followed by the four Holy Scrolls, the rabbis, and the congregation, to the new synagogue.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary during intermission.

Sam. Nyman gave a report of the new building, which started in November, 1939, but because of wartime restrictions had to be postponed. The synagogue includes a chapel, auditorium, two classrooms, library, meeting room and kitchen facilities. The architect was E. I. Richmond, Toronto, and the contractor, Summerhayes Construction Company, Brantford.

An Open Letter to the Rabbis of Toronto

Worthy Rabbis in Israel:

We, the members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, Local 633, Kosher Division, appeal to you to assist us in enforcing the observance of the Sabbath day by having all the kosher butcher stores in the City of Toronto close all day Saturday.

On October 4th, 1948, the Council of the Corporation of the City of Toronto enacted and passed By-Law No. 17367, according to which every kosher butcher is required to close his store at 6 p.m. on Saturday. However, the by-law does not prevent a kosher butcher from keeping his store open Saturday afternoon or, for that matter, even Saturday morning.

We believe that you are aware of the fact that a number of kosher butchers desecrate the holy Sabbath day by selling meat Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon.

Whether you are Orthodox, Conservative or Reform, we feel certain that the Sabbath day is very dear to you. And it must indeed be very painful to observe this state of affairs.

We therefore call upon you rabbis in Israel, the teachers and leaders of our people, men of knowledge and piety, to bury your personal animosities and differences and to unite in order to save the last vestige of Judaism on this continent, Kashruth and the Sabbath.

We, the members of Local 633 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters who are only ordinary workers, urge you to attend a meeting which we are calling of all the Toronto rabbis (Orthodox, Conservative and Reform), which will take place on October 26th, 8.30 p.m., at the Labour Lyceum.

This is our last opportunity, with the assistance of the Council of the Corporation of the City of Toronto, to enforce the observance of the Sabbath day by the kosher butcher stores. With your co-operation, we hope that this will lead to the eventual supervision of kosher meat and poultry.

We take great pride in the rabbinate of Toronto, and believe that the rabbis will unite in the interests of Judaism to do everything possible to preserve the great heritage of our people.

Yours very truly,

is because the defenders of freedom are willing to give their lives that you and I can enjoy our treasured heritage."

Mr. Cashmore said: "In dedicating this memorial we are reaffirming our own faith in democracy and the cause of human freedom, for which Colonel Marcus gave all he had, including his life."

Other speakers included Supreme Court Justice William T. Powars, president of the Col. David Marcus Foundation, Inc., and Edward Zeltner, who acted as chairman. A crowd of more than 5,000 persons filled the playground and the surrounding streets. Music was provided by the Police Department band. Color guards from veteran organizations flanked the dais.

More than 1,000 persons attended a breakfast held earlier at the Hotel St. George when a drive was announced by Brooklyn League, Red Mogen Dovid, to raise $150,000 for the erection of a Col. David Marcus blood plasma and serum laboratory in Israel.

A memorial service for Colonel Marcus, conducted jointly by the Queens County Council, Jewish War Veterans, and the Long Island Zionist Region, was held at the Jamaica Jewish center, 150-91 Eighty-seventh Road, Jamaica. Brig. Gen. Julius Klein of Chicago, former national commander of the JWV, was the principal speaker.

General Klein praised Colonel Marcus as "the kind of American who cherished his country's freedoms so highly that he died seeking to extend them to a country and a people held captive for over 2,000 years."

Col. Charles C. Stevenson, judge advocate of the New York State National Guard, suggested that the proposed military academy in Israel be named in honor of Colonel Marcus.

SAYS ARAB LEAGUE

tian War Loan for Palestine. As a whole, Egyptian Jewry, most cultured and wealthiest of Oriental Jewries, is bearing these assaults with dignity.

"The persecution of Egyptian Jewry has also taken very violent forms. The explosion in Cairo's 1,000-year-old Jewish quarter was no doubt due to an Arab bomb, and even non-Jews are being violated in the streets. A U.S. non-Jewish businessman was stabbed to death by a Cairo mob; I know of a case in Alexandria where a Christian Arab, well known in the East, is being harassed for having shielded his Jewish office manager from arrest.

"The situation is no different in Baghdad, a city of 100,000 Jews, and ever a danger-spot of extremist elements. Today the danger there is very great, because Baghdad is exposed to Communist propaganda as well as to Western propaganda, and each expression of feeling finds its first reaction in the Jewish quarter.

"Trans-Jordan and Saudi Arabia have no Jewish population. But in Aden, British protectorate, there is an uneasy quiet after the massacres of last December. No incidents have been reported from there. Even in Persia and Afghanistan the Jewish position is extremely bad, although these countries are not participating in the Palestine conflict. Many Afghan Jews have fled to India.

"So much for excesses. The events of last month, however, have revealed something very much worse than occasional anti-Semitic outbursts: The Arab League has a plan for systematically looting the property of all Jews in the Arab countries, and for their impoverishment. The plan is another one of the secret Muslim decisions of the Arab rulers of 1947, in which measures for the Palestine conflict were taken. The plan is now in action. It provides for many large and small, but hazardous, ways of dispossessing Jewish property, ways which are not reported in the world press."

in many real estate, hotel and motion-picture companies throughout the country and was president of the Bretton Woods Company, hotel operators. The Bretton Woods Corporation acquired the Mount Washington Hotel in New Hampshire, locale of United Nations Monetary and Financial Conference in 1944, for a reported price of $500,000 earlier that year. Mr. Stoneman also was chairman of the Brighton Hotel Company when it took a long term lease on the Brighton Hotel in Atlantic City in 1947. The deal was said to involve a consideration of $2,000,000.

Mr. Stoneman was a member of the Massachusetts Constitutional Convention from 1917 to 1919, a member of the Boston Park Commission and was a trustee and former chairman of the finance committee of Suffolk University in Boston. He was a founder and for fifteen years president of the Pine Brook Country Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Anne Fleisher Stoneman; and two sons, S. Sidney and E. Harold Stoneman.

Harry Gertz, president of Gertz Department Store, Jamaica Avenue and 162nd Street, Jamaica, Queens, New York, was sworn in as a member of the Board of Higher Education by Mayor William O'Dwyer at City Hall. Mr. Gertz succeeds his brother, the late Max Gertz. His term will expire in 1954. The position carries no salary. Mr. Gertz, forty-nine, was graduated from Cooper Union in 1915 and attended Columbia University Teachers College in 1916. He became an instructor in Brooklyn public schools before serving as an Artillery lieutenant in World War I. In 1932 he was president of the Jamaica Chamber of Commerce.

TWICE A YEAR

Children usually have their full set of temporary teeth around three years of age and sometimes before then they should begin to visit the dentist regularly twice a year. By the time a child begins school, he should have learned to brush his teeth thoroughly twice a day. A good diet helps ensure a good set of strong, healthy teeth.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by Don Graham

"You've Gotta Accentuate the Positive" says the popular song of yesteryear. And it's true!

The men and women who have accomplished big things in science, art, business, education, political and military affairs have all been positive thinkers. They had to be! Otherwise risks, mistakes, obstacles and laziness would have stopped them.

A barber once told me he wanted to open his own shop. But he never got around to it. Fear of failure held him back.

Negative thinking is likewise typical of all the people who are habitual fault-finders, indecisive, lazy, defeatist and over-cautious. They act as brakes against the world's progress.

Yes, we need more folks who accentuate the positive. And they themselves are happier, more successful in their work and enjoy better relationships with others!

An important positive force for national progress is the millions of dollars invested by life insurance companies, on behalf of policyholders, in public works and industries which promote higher standards of living for all.

Foremost Reform Synagogue Installs Head

Dr. Julius Mark was installed as senior rabbi of Congregation Emanu-El at a special service in the temple, Fifth Avenue at Sixty-fifth Street, New York. A capacity throng of 2,500 persons attended.

The ceremony was conducted by a boyhood friend, Dr. Nelson Glueck, Rabbi, president of the recently merged Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati and the Jewish Institute of Religion in New York.

Prior to his election last June as senior rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, America's foremost Reform synagogue, Dr. Mark had been rabbi of Vine Street Temple, Nashville, Tenn., for twenty-two years. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, becoming the fourteenth rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, whose congregation numbers upward of 1,300 families. Dr. Mark made his first public appearance at the installation service.

Dr. Glueck paid tribute "to Temple Emanu-El's role in the translation of the ideals of Judaism into all the ways of our lives as Jews and Americans."

"The Temple's history is now part of the pattern of America, which we American Jews have helped create, and to whose further development we shall proudly continue to contribute, in consonance with the commandments of God," he said.

"The contributions of Oscar Straus, Jacob H. Schiff, Felix M. Warburg, Louis Marshall, Adolph S. Ochs, Daniel Guggenheim, Irving Lehman and others who have passed on have added greatly to the prestige of this congregation and the position of American Jewry and world Jewry and to the welfare of America and humanity."

Dr. Glueck referred to his association with Dr. Mark and said that during the twenty-six years that have intervened since he was graduated from the Hebrew Union College he "served our cause and country with outstanding success."

"An appreciation of his achievements and honors can merely underline the high caliber of his career and personality," Dr. Glueck said. "The community of Nashville, Jewish and Christian, to which he ministered for many years, will long remember him with gratitude and love. He was active in every humanitarian endeavor in Tennessee, and became one of its most distinguished citizens."

While rabbi of the Vine Street Temple in Nashville Dr. Mark held directorships in the Tennessee Red Cross, the Tennessee Children's Home Finding Society and the Tennessee Association for the Relief of Ex-Convicts. He is chairman of the Committee on Justice and Peace of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

In his response to Dr. Glueck's statements and to the welcome from Lewis L. Strauss, president of the congregation and a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, Dr. Mark pledged himself to the service of the congregation. He expressed the hope that the purpose for which Congregation Emanu-El was founded "may reach an ever closer approximation of fulfillment and that the flame of Judaism, bright, vigorous and resplendent, may continue to bring blessings manifold to our people."

He emphasized that Congregation Emanu-El was the first to announce its adherence to Reform Judaism.

Asher Beilin, well-known Hebrew and Yiddish playwright, died at the age of 67, at Tel Aviv. Born in Kiev, Russia, he worked as a newspaperman in Poland, the United States, England, and Palestine. For a short time he was on the editorial staff of the New York Jewish Morning Journal.

CLAIMS ISRAELI

Dr. Sneh defended the Israeli Government against allegations by Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, acting United Nations mediator and successor to the assassinated Count Bernadotte. Dr. Bunche had said insufficient precautions were taken to protect Count Bernadotte, but Dr. Sneh declared the United Nations mediator had declined offers of protection.
